

Going through cancer... Not all bad Pt 2 - Carmel

I'm glad my testimony is still on the church website and that it encourages those who have or are going through similar circumstance to myself. At my last visit to my oncologist, after having further scans, he mentioned to me that he was surprised to see that I was still alive. I said that I realised this and that I had researched the internet to find that only 2% of people are still alive after 2 years following a brain metastacy. He said that it was in fact not even that and that he himself had not seen someone live as long as me in his career. I told him that I have my God looking after me and he agreed that I must. I hope that this last update for my health will provide further encouragement.

Kind regards

Carmel
